

LivingWalls Hush Fields

You bring the bungalow,
we have the plot.

A plotted project that we designed like a high-end villa community.

Enticingly rare Plots

Hush Fields isn't merely a piece of land but a thoughtfully curated community.

Streetscapes that fade into parks

Designed to be inviting and functional, blending a driveable surface with patterned materials, avenue planting for privacy, and well-planned underground utilities.

A park for everyone in the family

We've got a series of Pocket Parks, each with its own vibe. Whether you're into serene Zen gardens, active outdoor gyms, or lively community gatherings, there's a spot for everyone.

The landscape weaves

A string of five unique pocket parks, to ensure every home is just a hop away from a serene or playful escape.

Ending in a clubhouse

To create a focal point within the community, the clubhouse is thoughtfully placed at the eastern end of a series of five different Pocket Parks.

LivingWalls Hush Fields

Our team and CNT Architects collaboratively treated Hush Fields like a design project, prioritizing community and joy. Attention was meticulously given to the entrance, streetscape, and landscape, introducing features like a cobblestone driveway, paved streets, five distinct pocket parks and a clubhouse.

While most plotted developments simply divide the land into plots with basic amenities, We envisioned Hush Fields differently. Our team approached Hush Fields as if we were designing the common areas of a high-end villa community.

We set out to craft a remarkable gated community.

Playing hide & seek with Hennur Road

Unlike most plotted developments that are located outside the city limits, Hush Fields is uniquely located, offering a serene environment just moments away from city conveniences like shopping, schools, and work spaces.

Tirelessly working to shrink the wide gap between 'a personalised home' and mass produced residential real estate.
